HAWAIIAN LODGE COMPLETES ITS FIFTY YEARS IN APPROPRIATE CEREMONY

and J. H. Polo, Steward; L. T. Grant, Chaplain; S. S. Peck, Marshal; W. S. Bohm, Tyler. Kilauea Lodge, No. 330, is now a full fledged lodge, peaceful, prosperous, progressive, and is ably and faithfully fulfilling its mission of brotherly love, relief and truth. They have recently purchased a large lot on Wai'anene street and hope at an early date to see their way clear to follow in the footsteps of Hawaiian Lodge and build for themselves a suitable and comfortable home.

Hawaii's Masonic Membership. As an evidence of the flourishing condition of Freemasonry in Hawaii, we record the fact that there are four lodges of Master Masons in existence in our Territory, with membership on January 1, 1902, as follows: At Honolulu, Hawaiian Lodge, 225; Pacific Lodge, 138; Lodge Le Progres de l'Océanie, 109. At Hilo, Kilauea Lodge 72; or a total of 551 Master Masons.

While I am supposed to confine myself to the history of Blue Lodge Masonry, it would seem appropriate to record here the fact of the prosperous working of numerous higher branches of the order, including Honolulu Chapter of Royal Arch Masons, Honolulu Commandery, Knights Templar, Kilauea Chapter of Perfect Masons, Scotch Rite, Nuuanu Chapter of the Red Cross, Alexander Liboholt Chapter of Knights of Kadosh, and Aloha Temple of the Mystic Shrine, at Honolulu, and Kalaui Lodge of Perfection at Hilo. It was a happy thought to link in and perpetuate with local Freemasonry names and words which are inseparable from Hawaiian history.

Nearly all the members of these higher branches are members of the local Blue Lodges, although a few retain membership in their home lodges in other lands.

Eastern Star Lodges.

Nor must I neglect to mention—and may I apologize for not placing them first instead of last—the two chapters of the beautiful "Order of the Eastern Star," "Hawaiian No. 1, at Hilo, and "Leah" No. 2, at Honolulu. For membership in this order the wives, mothers, daughters, sisters and widows of Master Masons are eligible. A number of the husbands and fathers are in evidence also as members. At the lady membership alone of the two chapters on January 1st, 1902 numbered 65.

The Native Daughters of Hawaii hold the world's record, as graceful, splendid, dainty riders, sitting astride their horses, erect in form, firm in seat, robed in the bright flowing kileh, or divided skirt, and adorned with leis, they form a picture not soon to be forgotten.

Their sisters from other lands, who have made Hawaii their home, and who have a fondness for horseback exercise, have as a rule been prompt to adopt the more healthful, more graceful and decidedly safer method in riding. Possibly this mastery of the "spirited steed" may have tended somewhat to the rapid building up of the Order of the Eastern Star. Self-evident of their ability as horsewomen, they no longer dread the ordeal of initiation.

Standing at this, the fiftieth milestone, marking the years of our existence, Hawaiian Lodge may look with pardonable pride over her record of the past and feel that although there may have been sorrows and troubles to mingle with her joys, her labors in the best interests of the "Brotherhood of Man" have not been altogether in vain.

In this hour we reverently remember those of our brethren who, in obedience to the call of our Supreme Grand Master, have laid aside their working tools and now rest from the labors of life.

We congratulate those who have been privileged to join in this celebration of our "Golden Jubilee," and we charge the younger generation who are just entering the portals, to gird themselves well for the duties consistent with a truly Masonic life; for a work which is well and truly done will prove to be the noblest work of all their manhood's years. And may they so strive that when the century of their existence shall have rounded out, Freemasonry and its kindred associations in Hawaii may be counted in the foremost rank of those who labor for selfless aims, but who, under emotion and reason, realize that it is better to give than to receive, and with whom "the quality of mercy is not strained, but droppeth like the gentle dew of heaven upon the earth beneath." The Father and the mercy which begetteth him who gives and him who takes and become the Crowned Monarch better than his scepter.

Judge Este's Remarks. A heartily enjoyed violin solo by J. H. Amme with "companion" by Miss Carrie Castle, was followed by the introduction of Past Grand Master Morris M. Este of the Grand Lodge of California. Judge Este spoke, in part, as follows:

"Do you know when I listen to music such as I have just heard, I feel as if there ought to be a law making it a crime to animals for any man to get up and interrupt the beautiful harmony. I once knew a man, C. B. Goodwin, an editor of Salt Lake City. He couldn't make a speech and he had a way of writing down things on pieces of brown paper and reading from them. He was one night called on to speak. He began to read from his little piece of brown paper but, having no voice, could not make himself heard. Some one said "Louder" and Mr. Goodwin stopped and asked: "Can't you hear me?" The reply came in the negative, "Do you want to hear me?" was the next question. The answer coming in the affirmative, the speaker said: "Well, let me tell you, you are not losing as much as you think when you don't hear me."

"Masonry is of value or not exactly on what it does. You have got to live up to your record, brothers. It's what you do and not what your grandfathers did before you. We are told about King Solomon being the first Mason and the building of his temple. What difference does that make to us. We weren't there. To be a good Mason, it is not necessary for a man to remember things from the beginning. It is a big enough task to remember things from the time that the art of printing began.

"Masons are funny fellows. They don't tell about all they do, although their wives may be Eastern Stars. The ladies know all about the Eastern Star and they won't tell. Well, I don't blame them. There must be reciprocity—outside of the sugar business.

"Masonry speaks a universal language. It is the only institution in the world that is known in every civilized country. I once had a partner in California who went to Germany and, without knowing a word of the language, worked his way into a Masonic lodge there.

"When Masonic lodges do acts of charity, they do them in secret and do not tell of them to make themselves popular. When anyone says anything against Masonry, don't offer to contradict. Masonry can stand for itself against any assault. Some churches have been known to say things against Masonry but there is plenty of room for churches and Masonic lodges both. It is not a good thing to discuss Masonry with anyone in the world.

"No man ought ever to ask anybody to become a member of his lodge. It is against all the principles of Masonry. If anyone applies to you, say you are a Mason and that you believe Masonry makes a man better tomorrow than he is today.

"Masonry never does wrong. Some men who are Masons do wrong—are bad men—but the Order is not responsible for that. Masonry never did an injury to the living nor to the character of the dead.

"There is no place so lonely on the Mainland as you do not find a church, a Masonic lodge and a school for the life of me I do not know which does the most good. In any lodge you will always find an old man and a young man sitting side by side. There is no high or low, there are no nobles and there are no titles or nobility unless elected to such.

"There are no politics and no religion and yet no man can be a Mason unless he believes in a Supreme Being. No man is a good Mason unless he will devote some of his time and some of his fortune to charity, to the widow and orphan and to the sick and afflicted. A man to be a good Mason must also be loyal to his country, devoted to God and charitable to his fellow man."

With a few humorous remarks on keeping the audience from ice cream and cake, Judge Este closed what he had to say and the people filed out into the other rooms to enjoy a fine collation served by the young men of Hawaiian Lodge. The excellent punch and lemonade were brewed by Mr. Tucker and to Frederick Whitney, Worshipful Master of Hawaiian Lodge, was due the success of the arrangements which made the celebration of the fiftieth anniversary of the "lodge such a happy one.

At the conclusion of Judge Este's remarks, D. P. R. Isenberg sang Adam's "Isle of Dreams" so well that he was forced to respond to a thundering encore. His selection was a German song.
